

Touchstone 3

Unit 9 – B

Separable Phrasal verbs with objects

A class by Mr. Jean Paul Quiñonez

What is a phrasal verb?

- I usually clean my house on Saturdays.

It is the regular routine of cleaning.

- Last Saturday I cleaned up my bedroom and I found my lost shirt.

It was an exhaustive cleaning, more than the regular.

- This month I haven't cleaned off the house, there are tons of things we have to remove.

This has to be a very deep cleaning to remove things.

Normal verbs use A PARTICLE to have a specific meaning

Verbs can be separated

- We can turn on the TV after lunch.
- We can turn the TV on after lunch.
- We can turn it on after lunch.

When using object pronouns, they can be only between the verb and the particle

More examples

- I need to plug my telephone in the computer so that the files can be transferred.
- I need to plug in my telephone.
- I need to plug it in.

- We have to turn the radio down, they are studying.
- We have to turn down the radio.
- We have to turn it down.

Only the pronoun can be in the middle

Question Word + to + verb

- I would like to know how to do my homework.

You don't know the process for doing your homework.

- Do you know when to turn off the oven? I guess the cake is already baked.

You want to know the time to turn off the oven.

These aren't questions but sentences referring to questions

Embedded questions or Question Word + verb?

- Do you know what time we have to arrive in their house?.

The question is indirectly embedded.

- Do you know what time to arrive in their house?

There is no question embedded, only an infinitive.
